
Hulu Celebrates Black History Month with New Premieres and Refreshed “Black Stories Always” Hub

In honor of Black History Month, Hulu will continue to shine a light, as it does all year long, on Black stories and storytellers in our “Black Stories Always” hub. This month's noteworthy TV and film premieres include the third and final season of Wu-Tang: An American Saga, the final season of FX's Snowfall, Onyx Collective's docuseries The 1619 Project, the fifth season premiere of Freeform's Grown-ish, Onyx Collective's Bruiser, Andscape's Three Ways and new episodes of the Emmy and Golden Globe Award-winning series Abbott Elementary...and much more! Explore Hulu's library of not-just-for-February series and films featuring visionary Black storytellers and creators from titles such as FX's Kindred, The Wonder Years, Onyx Collective's Reasonable Doubt, Beba, FX's Atlanta, NAACP award-nominated Remember Me: The Mahalia Jackson Story, as well as comfort classic sitcoms like 227, Living Single, The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air and Family Matters. This February, the Disney Bundle will continue its promise of amplifying and celebrating Black stories across Disney+, Hulu, and ESPN+ all year long on each service's always-on Black Stories collection.